PHILIP WOOD

Again the time has come for another senior class to breathe one last breath within your walls, have one last laugh, and learn one last fact before it passes through your age-worn portals and out upon the sunlit paths which life has reserved for each of us. And yet we feel no fear, for you have groomed and prepared us as no other could to meet each challenge life may hurl at us. You have performed this thankless task for decades and now since you have outworn your purpose, your antiquated frame will soon be turned out to pasture to be replaced by a new gleaming structure. But though you may no longer exist as a material part of Wrentham you shall always linger in our memories.

*"So sleeps the pride of former days,
So glory's thrill is o'er,
And hearts, that once beat high for praise,
Now feel that pulse no more!"*

Promotion of Peace Through the United Nations

It's an old story—man's quest for peace. It is old because it has been age-long and unconquerable. It is a new story because it is happening today. And it is a story that will continue, because man was made for peace—not war. The very fact that this struggle for peace has survived countless failures and disappointments is eloquent of its epic constancy.

Modern man, with his mind and expectation too much bound to the present and recent past, might gain hope and perspective by looking to the future. And man's future, today, is in the United Nations.

Since its conception nine years ago, the United Nations has been the symbol for those purposes to which it has pledged collective effort: Peace, Security, Human Rights, Law, Freedom. These are simple words but they are all essential. Without one, the others would all fail. They mean civilization. Today, sixty nations and two thousand million people are committed to them.

"The process of learning to live together without war in this torn and distracted world of ours is going to be painful and a constant challenge for the rest of our lives. Yet we know what the choice is. Either we manage it, or we face disaster." These are the words of the Secretary-General of the United Nations. They say that the job is now, and will always be now.

The job has just begun.

Through many and varied specialized agencies the United Nations is seeking to bring a new meaning to life for millions of people all over the world. These specialized agencies seek to generally raise standards of living. By raising the standards of living of a country the inhabitants are also given a dignity and pride which helps them understand that no matter what the threat to their peace is, they will strive to eliminate that threat. In many cases this will take months—even years. But who will measure this time against a third world war?

Today tolerance is a necessity. Sometimes it may come hard. The price may be high—in time and endurance—but so is the stake: survival.

If this is a time of survival, this is also the time when man dared to think of the welfare of the human race as a practical objective. Nations and peoples lacking adequate scientific knowledge can learn from others who have the skills and are willing to share them. The United Nations, with its specialized agencies, has begun to put this idea to work. Its technical assistance program and the coordinated effort of its related agencies are the greatest organized sharing of skills ever attempted. They answer a challenge that will remain even when threats to peace have been removed.

The United Nations cannot by itself enforce peace; it cannot impose agreement. But in an age of total war and new weapons, neither can any alliance. The United Nations has been created so people can live together. In its Charter, nations have the means to come to terms—with each other and with this new age.

But the United Nations is only as strong as the will of its Member states to unite their efforts. And the Member states are only as strong as the will of their people. And the people are you and I—everybody.

That is the meaning of United Nations Day. The United Nations is what we want and what we will make of it.

It is only a beginning.

"... It will be a constant challenge for the rest of our lives."

Class History

CHAPTER ONE

September 5, 1951, was almost as important as June 10, 1955. It was on this date that a group of twelve and thirteen-year-old students entered their first year of high school. We all remember our first homeroom teacher, Mr. Pagos did much to help us in those first ten months of our high school days. During the year our class president, Sally Weber, presided at our class meetings. At one of these meetings we voted to have a "Parents' Nite". This night proved to be a big success with both the students and their parents. It was during this night that some of the freshmen got their first tryout as amateur actors in a courtroom scene which was to prove helpful in their junior and senior year. Also adding to the merry-making of the evening were a trio of boys, namely a Mr. Schwalbe, a Mr. Nightingale, and a Mr. Farrar, who dressed up in feminine garments and sang "On the Dunum Line".

CHAPTER TWO

In our sophomore year the entire school mourned over the retirement of our beloved science teacher, "Pop" Ewing. However, Mr. Swett could not acclaim all the credit of being the only baldheaded member of the faculty because a new teacher by the name of Mr. Hayes took Pop's place. Many members of our class were in Mr. Hayes's biology and plane geometry classes. Mickie Roche was elected as our class president. During the year we held three dances and had several food sales. In March the "First Annual Prize Speaking Contest" was held. One of our classmates, Shirley Prue, took first prize away. Mrs. Parise, our class adviser, had quite a lot of trouble trying to keep us quiet and for some strange reason bestowed upon us the title of being the "noisiest class" in all her years of teaching. Do you suppose that's the reason why she was to leave us in another year?

CHAPTER THREE

Our junior year was much more quiet than our sophomore year. Miss Roche must have been very successful in her position as sophomore class president because she was chosen by the class to be president for another year. Our school is noted for its science teachers. Mr. Hayes resigned as the second baldheaded member of our faculty and Mr. Petit took his place. In our senior year we were to have two more science teachers, namely Mr. Pierce and Mr. Gleekman. At the beginning of the year Mr. Pagos also left us and Mr. Toner was our new coach. In the fall we held our first class play entitled "Meet Corlis Archer". During the year we held two successful dances and in the spring we held our "Junior Prom". Two boys were chosen from the class to go to Boys' State but unfortunately the reservations were not sent in early enough and the boys did not go. However, Shirley Prue did go to Girls' State and had a grand time there.

CHAPTER FOUR

At last came our senior year! This was the final step in our four years. We started the year off by holding the first dance. A month after that we held our second class play, entitled "A Case of Springtime". All who attended will remember scenes such as Philip Picard's putting on the hat with an egg in it; Carmen Fiumara's singing "There Will Be a Hot Time in the Old Town Tonight"; and Shirley Prue's sitting on a pincushion in the chair. In the fall our school was most honored indeed to be a part of the U. N. Fair in Wrentham. As part of an English assignment we were asked to write essays on the U. N. Sally Weber's essay won first prize and she spent three days in New York with the other winners. Philip Wood wrote a vivid description of the entire U. N. program in Wrentham and his article was printed in the Massachusetts Teacher magazine. The senior class has certainly done its part in helping in the Athletic Association and the Student Council. Carl Schwalbe is president of the Athletic Association and Philip Wood, David Cox, Mickie Roche, and Carol Harmon are officers of the Student Council. Our class has also taken part in the basketball spirit of the school. Barrie Farrar is captain of the Boys' Varsity Team, Carmen Fiumara and Philip Wood are managers of the two varsities, and Mickie Roche is the head-cheerleader. During the year our class put on two Saturday night suppers. In March the "Third Annual Prize Speaking Contest" was held. Seniors participating in the contest were Shirley Prue, Philin Wood, and David Cox. In the spring we held a record hop with Ernie Anderson as disk jockey. Everyone enjoyed himself at the dance even if Ernie showed up an hour late and the seniors went twenty dollars in the hole. Jacqueline Ware was chosen to represent us at the Daughters of American Revolution convention, and Philip Wood was chosen as good government representative at the State House. Karen Fahlgren and David Cox were chosen as exchange students and were the guests of Quincy High School. In February we started to put together our year-book. It is interesting to note that the Senior Class of '55 received more advertisements than any previous class. During the April vacation we spent five glorious days doing the town in New York. The pleasant memories of our grand days in good, old Wrentham High School were in the minds of all as we stepped forward to receive our diplomas on that warm June night. I would even dare say that there was a tear of joy in Mrs. Capron's eye as she received the satisfaction of completing another class through their high school days.

Class Prophecy

June 10, 1966

Miss Mary Sue Smith
Gallup Research Poll Industry
New York, New York

Dear Mary Sue,

I have been commissioned by the Mid-Western United Insurance Firm to give a dissertation on world problems and the way they effect the physiological needs of the people since 1955 until the present day. I was extremely surprised to learn that you are the secretary to the manager of the Research Poll office located in New York. I am research analyst for the western branch of the Gallup Polls and am awaiting a new foreign assignment in the process. I imagine we will be working together on this matter.

The other day I happened to run into an old classmate of ours, Philip Picard, and I mean "ran" into him. Being the type of fellow he is, he excused my carelessness, and we began to discuss the success of classmates over locked bumpers and crashed fenders. Phil is the owner of a fleet of Cadillacs, Buicks, and Fords, and runs his own Drive-U-School in Longbeach, California. Just at that moment a police car pulled up to a screeching halt and California's version of Rudolph King got out to give me a ticket. However, when Carl Schwalbe realized that I was a former classmate of his, he discovered he had forgotten his tickets and after a few words he left.

It seems that Karen Falhgren, head buyer for Saks Fifth Avenue, just returned from her latest Paris buying trip with the newest Parisian and Italian creations. While in Paris, Karen visited Carol Harmon, who, as you no doubt know, married her boss while working as a secretary to the United Nations and is residing in Paris.

I read in the newspaper that Janet Goodwin, literary critic for the New York Times, has awarded the Book-of-the-Month medal to Andrew Graham for his novel "The Individualist". Andy is now a rising novelist and renowned psychologist and adds this award to a host of others. Janet has just refused an offer to work for one of the Paris newspapers, to remain with the New York Times.

Doctor Philip Wood has been named the Doctor of the Year for his valuable service to the government in his research in the field of incurable diseases. Sandra Cooper has also been assigned by the government to continue work in this field by being appointed Director of Medical Technologists at the Medical Base Center at Washington, D. C. It is interesting to note that Sandy is working in the new, ingeniously constructed research building designed and constructed under the direction of David E. Cox.

Another one of our classmates is residing in Washington. Edward Bodmer, the designer of the fifteen dollar bill, has been commissioned to design the new postage stamp series.

The former Marijane Roche and her doctor-pilot husband have devoted their lives to serve the sick of the Alaskan wastelands. Marijane is a member of the Alaskan Community and Visiting Nurse Corps of which she is an associate founder.

It seems that classmates of ours have been attracted by the lure of foreign countries. Sally Weber, the former Vienna correspondent and linguist, has been awarded the 1965 Pulitzer Prize for exceptional work in foreign coverage. Sally's husband is preparing her story as a basis of a "Big Story" tele-cast.

Dean Jacqueline Ware has been recalled from Germany where she has been an exchange Dean to an exclusive Girl's School to become Director of Education for the Commonwealth of Massachusetts. Before returning to this country, Jackie is flying to Rome to visit Shirley Giannetti who has been transferred from the Chicago Airline Office to Rome where she is serving as a secretary.

Joan Whyte is now the chief hair stylist for the John Power's Modeling Agency and is preparing to accompany her husband on a nation-wide lecture tour to various beauty culture schools. Joan was visited by Shirley Prue. Shirley recently completed her Australian guest tour with Spitalny's All Girl Orchestra. Even with her heavy touring schedule, Shirley and her agent husband and three young sons, still find time to visit old friends in all the major cities of the world.

Carmen Fiumara has sent to press a sequel to his last book of limericks which swept the nation. His latest book has been illustrated by himself. Carmen is a cartoonist for one of the leading newspaper syndicates when he is not writing. Nothing much is heard from Barrie Farrar. He is too busy counting the millions he is making on his latest oil discovery in Oklahoma. He did take time out to spend a few minutes with Carlin Nightingale when Chickie passed through on his way to Mexico where he has been sent by the American Exporting Firm, because of his adeptness at Spanish and his selling ability, to set up a branch office. Chickie met Jack Haehnel on his way. Jack has designed a new, faster, more economical sports car and was on his way to the testing grounds for a trial run.

Lt. Christine Fitzgerald, after five years in the Waves, married a Vice-Admiral and has set up housekeeping in a unique home, a reconditioned submarine. Diana Dery, who married her childhood sweetheart just after graduation, is traveling in the Pacific area with her husband and their six children. Diana is returning shortly to her new home in Iowa. Gail Waterman has been promoted to Superintendent of Nurses at the Oregon Air Force Base. Gail is giving up her career shortly to spend full time as the new bride of an Air Force pilot.

I must close now but will most likely see you when I arrive in New York.

Sincerely yours,

MARY ANN DUFFY
Attorney-at-Law

The Junior Class started off their season of activities with the dance, "Witch Hop." On December 3 they presented the WARA Disc Jockey, Hal Peterson, at their dance called "The Hal Peterson Record Hop." This dance was followed by a successful food sale on January 29, 1955. On April 1 "Junior Prom," a farce-comedy, was presented at the Vogel School. Future plans include a dance on May 6 and the annual Junior Prom scheduled for June 3. The class wishes to thank all those who helped make their year's activities a success.

The Life Of A Manager

CARMEN FIUMARA

A manager's life is not much fun;
He gets "digs" and jeers from everyone.
He carries the balls when we go on a trip
And the score books and the medicine grip.
He runs for the keys to open the door;
He cleans up the balls, sweeps up the floors.
He brings the boys oranges when they're dry
And then gets the peels back right in the eye.
He keeps the score, and if he's mistaken,
They jump down his throat til his neck they are breakin'
Though at times he gets treated like a slob,
I like it, 'cause that's my job.

This year we had the distinction of being in the Mayflower League, which set us up against some tough opposition. We played three non-league games which greatly aided us in discovering our weaknesses.

The first league game was against Dover at which the boys went down fighting. The games seemed to go by swiftly with Wrentham not breaking any records. A new offense was worked on and we defeated Norton. Once again the games rolled by with Wrentham still not showing much promise of leadership, although our boys were playing their hearts out. It seemed that the toughest teams were the teams that they played hardest against and that they laid down against the teams they were capable of beating. One of the big factors governing our wins and losses was that many of the players were ill at the most crucial games. However, we defeated Norton again.

The boys had something extra to work for this year since they were to play Hanover, a team which they could beat, at a tournament. The game was a tough one but we missed again.

Coach Silva feels that next year we shall have a good team, since we are losing only one varsity player. This year our team was young and inexperienced but with this year's experience behind them, they should have a good season next year. We graduating seniors wish them the best of luck.

Under the leadership of their coach, Mrs. MacLeod, the Wrentham Varsity girls marched through their nine-game season with a record of three victories, five losses, and one tie. The Junior Varsity team, managed six victories and three losses.

High scorers on the Varsity team were Delight Harmon, with 110 points, and Judy Dumont, a close second with 109 points. On the Junior Varsity Joan Riehards made 58 points and Judy Harper made 43.

On March 2, a Basketball Play Day was held in Franklin, with girls from Sharon, Franklin, North Attleboro, Millis, Medway, Dover, Medfield, and Wrentham participating in an afternoon of competition. Seventy-two girls from the various towns were divided into two teams, the Reds and the Yellows, each of which selected three basketball squads. Three games were played and two out of three were won by the Yellows.

This Play Day evolved out of meetings of the co-aches from these towns who felt the need of co-operation and similar policies, and who also by a Referee Pool, officiated at one another's games, which fulfilled the common needs of all these schools.

Although it is not the desire to form a league, the success of unified thinking and action is an asset to all schools and Wrentham is proud to be a part.

This fall the high school students, faculty, and the cheerleaders voted for Phyllis Manchester, Rosemarie Coutu, and Helen Larsen to complete the cheerleaders' group.

The Wrentham cheerleaders were hostess and also gave an exhibition at the Third Annual Southeastern Massachusetts Cheerleaders' Tournament on January 26, 1955, at the King Philip Auditorium. The first prize winners were West Bridgewater in Division I and Walpole in Division II.

The girls did an excellent job of cheering at all the basketball games this season.

On Friday evening, March 28, 1955, the Wrentham Cheerleaders competed at Spencer, Massachusetts, and won first prize. About fifty Wrentham supporters were present to see their well-deserved victory.

The floor was sticky; the men were dry; and the crowd was getting noisier as the game between Wrentham's faculty and Foxboro's faculty progressed. Out on the floor were such stars as Mr. "Hooker" Sullivan, Mr. "Swifty" Aucoin, Mr. "Dribbler" Delaney, Mr. "Lusty" Lodi and Mr. "All-over" Morgan. To add to this list of old players we had such newcomers as Mr. Silva and Mr. Gleekman, both of whom proved to be capable ball-handlers. The game went on with each of the players doing his part to make this a victory for Wrentham. They set up some very nice plays working Mr. Gleekmans rebounding with Mr. Delaney's dribbling which led to Mr. Aucoin's passes to Mr. Morgan, who drove hard and then passed off to Mr. Silva to clinch the basket with a lay-up. This seemed to be a pattern to the boys who had only had a few practices before playing the games. Every now and then to add some color to the game Mr. Sullivan would put in what he terms "a turn-around jump with complications." All in all the boys were successful in both their games with Foxboro and managed to raise funds to send some senior to college. We congratulate them and wish them luck next season.

The Choral Art Society sponsored their Third Annual Christmas Concert on December 17, 1954, under the direction of Mr. Sullivan. The Society is now planning to present a spring concert.

The Society is one of the largest choral groups in this area. Wrentham should be proud of their high school music program.

The Choral Art Society wishes to thank Mr. Sullivan, Mrs. Hugh Marshall, and all the others who have helped to make their concert a success.

This year the Student Council has had no main projects, however, it has served the classes as a liaison organization between the faculty and the student body. One of the main causes of concern to the Student Council has been the deleted condition of our treasury which prevented our sending representatives to conventions. But by sponsoring several activities, such as dances and food sales we hope to remedy this situation and become an even more effective organization.

Casting Team

The Casting Team is a member of the Massachusetts Casting League and is sponsored by the Wrentham Sportsman's Association. It is the only high school casting team in Massachusetts. League matches are held every Monday night in the town hall with seven teams competing. The high school usually comes in fourth or fifth place.

Several members of the team went to the Sportsman's Show in Boston to compete. In the finals Elin Youngdahl took first place in the Girls' Division and Maureen Paksarian came in second. Bobby Rowell took third place in the Novice Division. George Willard came in fifth in the Boys' Division.

The junior high cheerleaders consisted of two teams: the eighth grade group and the seventh grade group. The eighth graders cheered at all the junior high school team games, away and at home. Their uniforms consisted of maroon corduroy short skirts, yellow sweaters, yellow tights, yellow socks, and white sneakers. The eighth grade girls had maroon corduroy beanies with a yellow pom-pom. Included in this group were Joan Gross, Carol Ann Delaney, Kathleen Hamm, Patricia Bevilaqua, Joyce Mitchell, and Rosemary Smith.

The seventh grade cheerleaders participated in all high school girls' basketball games at home. These girls were Joan Gardner, Ann Kennedy, Ann Marie Hestness, Nancy Binney, Eileen Waterman, and Elaine Willard.

With the able leadership of Miss Murphy, Mr. Morgan, and the two managers, Phyllis Viall and Carolyn Macaione, both teams enjoyed a very successful season.

The United Nations In Wrentham

PHILIP WOOD

There is a small town located in southeastern Massachusetts which would appear to travelers to be typically New England; the giant shade trees bordering its streets, the old stately homes mingled with newly constructed dwellings peeking from beyond the trees, the town common with its benches, greenery, and statue in memoriam of a Civil War hero, and the antiquated architecture of the Protestant Church topped by its legendary towering steeple. And the four thousand people of the town differ in no way, save physical appearance, from the folks in your neighborhood: the man of the family off for work in the morning, the children converging on the local institutions of learning, the mothers taking "baby" for a walk along leaf-buried sidewalks, and after school the younger children crashing through hedges in an imitation of Roy Rogers, while the older students plod homeward heavy laden with books. Yes, this could be almost any quiet New England village. However, it is Wrentham, which recently observed United Nations Day by devoting one whole week-end to this observance for the financial benefit of the United Nations and the cultural benefit of the townspeople.

The idea was conceived several months prior to the actual celebration, but this time was needed for the basic planning necessary for the undertaking of such a project.

Every pupil in school from the first grade on up to the twelfth grade participated in one manner or another lending their contributions to the successful climax on November 5. The grammar school and junior high were entrusted with the learning of the dances and folk songs and endless rehearsals began for them soon after school opened. The high school participated in many ways. A prize was offered, a trip to New York City, to four pupils, one from each grade in the high school for the winning essays written on the United Nations, and each student was required to write one. But these literary works were not uninspired, for every available bulletin board displayed posters concerning the U. N., special assemblies, were called for the purpose of viewing films explaining the aims and purposes of the U. N., and a guest speaker, Mrs. Dorothy Lewis, provided an enjoyable and informative talk on the organization and duties of the United Nations. The United States History class composed thirty page notebooks delving into the organization. The Home Economics class, not to be outdone, made up a menu for school lunches which featured meals from other nations, and the art class prepared menus for a tea.

Then slowly as the weeks progressed donations of space for a fair were received from the Congregational Church. Goods imported from the different countries were procured for the sale; members of the Congregational Church offered their time and services, and finally the day for the opening of the observance drew forth.

On Friday morning, November fifth, and throughout the day, classes from the junior and senior high schools toured the Congregational Church, where booths had been set up. Each booth was devoted to a geographical section of the world or a country and had on display wares representative of the country or section. As the students visited a booth they received a thumb-nail sketch of the countries included, the people, the geography, products, and economy. Then Friday evening the grammar school performed their long-rehearsed songs and dances and the winning essays were read before an audience of about four hundred and fifty people. Saturday morning the booths opened for business and the different wares displayed the previous day were offered to the public: brass work from the Far East, tapestries from the Middle East, carvings from Africa, Hummel figures, and toys from Europe, and pottery and weavings typical of Central America. An International supper was presented that evening featuring tables which specialized in Scandinavian, Chinese, and American food with several foreign exchange students attending. Sunday, November seventh, the Congregational Church had a guest minister, the Reverend Khanti Bhogat from India, and as the culminating activity, a tea was organized by a Citizen's Committee for the afternoon with a guest speaker from the United Nations and the visiting students from other countries in attendance as guests in the school auditorium.

Thus you see why this town of Wrentham, in my eyes, is due great credit for the cooperation which went into this memorable observance, to say nothing of the labor and time. Perhaps more villages and towns throughout America should endeavor to attempt a similar observance to teach their people the value of toleration, cooperation, and the essential inner mechanisms of the United Nations as a conductor of peace and good will so their people may become intelligent world citizens and protect those picturesque towns from being destroyed.

Yes, Wrentham, to the passer through, may seem a quiet, dull town, but believe me it is an inspiringly wonderful town in which to live.

Neglected

CARMEN FIUMARA

You're unwanted, so you say;
You're always feeling blue.
The telephone may ring all day
But never rings for you.
All you do is sit at home,
While all your friends go out;
And at a dance you're all alone,
You just sit and pout.
You never want to play the games,
The other fellows play,
Girls laugh at you and call you names,
Then they run away.
What good reason can be found?
Is everybody scheming?
No, the world is going round,
While you, my friend, are dreaming!

Night Life

ANDREW GRAHAM

The moon is a globe of crystal
Cutting the onyx night.
Its beams are binding the ocean
With bands of golden light.
The stars are the children of heaven
At play in the midnight sky.
In the shadows are cool, dark places
Where the night winds whisper and sigh.
The trees that stand by the wayside
Are giants, tall and slack;
The road that twists on like a ribbon
Forms a winding track.
But when the moon is hidden
Behind the cloud's dark wall,
The earth is dull and dreary
And the magic is gone from all.
